【G】 次は、神奈川県の高校に通う Risako と Cathy の対話である。これを読んで、あとの問いに答えなさい。

Risako: Are you free tomorrow? How about going swimming at *Shonan Beach?

Cathy: Yes, I'd like to. I don't have any plans tomorrow. Can I take my brother?

Risako: Sure. But your brother smokes, doesn't he?

Cathy: Yes, but why? Is there any problem?

Risako: Kanagawa prefecture has a rule to (ア) smoking on beaches. It's called Smoke-free Beach Policy.

Cathy: I didn't know that. Do many beaches in Japan have such a rule?

Risako: No, Kanagawa is the first prefecture to have such a policy. Our beaches have many visitors from outside the prefecture, so they need a strict rule.

Cathy: Do smokers in Kanagawa have to give up going swimming in the sea?

Risako: No, they don't have to. They can smoke at (イ) a certain place. And they don't have to pay any penalty.

Cathy: I think that's unfair. Many cities have smoke-free areas and smokers have to pay a penalty when they smoke within the area. Smokers on smoke-free beaches should pay a penalty, too.

Risako: I agree. But I have a strange feeling with the words "smoke-free" areas and "smoke-free" beaches. It sounds like people can smoke (ウ) there.

Cathy: No, Risako. In this case, "free" means "not allowed" or "not containing". So "smoke-free" is equal to "non-smoking".

Risako: I see. Recently, I often see signs that say "No Smoking" in cafes, restaurants, stations and so on. But I'm afraid in Japan more people still smoke in public (エ) compared with other countries.

Cathy: I hate to see parents smoking when they sit with their babies. Don't they understand smoking may cause cancer?

Risako: Who knows? Do you remember we cleaned around our school last month? We had to pick up so many *cigarette butts on the streets. It made us sad.

Cathy: But many people have started to realize that smoking is harmful to the human body and some of them decide to stop smoking. I'll tell my brother to stop smoking.

* Shonan Beach 湘南海岸 cigarette butt たばこの吸い殻

【H】 次の英文を読んで、あとの問いに答えなさい。

How long do you usually sleep? Some people sleep only for four or five hours a night. Other people may need twelve hours of sleep. Doctors say you won't have a serious illness from lack of sleep. But if you don't have enough sleep, you are not able to concentrate on your work. It is said the average person spends 220,000 hours of his lifetime sleeping. People need (ア) sleep when they grow older. A newborn baby may sleep from sixteen to eighteen hours a day. Older people sleep only for a few hours each night.

Doctors say people have five stages of sleep. During the first two stages, you sleep (イ). As soon as someone calls you or puts his hand on you, you wake up. During stages three and four, your sleep becomes deep. Even if someone puts his hand on you, you don't wake up. You don't hear sounds and don't feel anything. Lights don't wake you up. Your heart beats more slowly than in stages one and two. During the fifth stage of sleep, you breathe rapidly, and your heart beats faster than in the other stages. The temperature of your body rises. Your eyes move under your eyelids. (ウ) All of these happen because you are dreaming. Your sleep changes from stage one to stage five, and these changes go on all night.

Some scientists thought dreams influence on our physical condition, and they did an experiment. They used a machine that told them when the *subjects of the experiment began to have a dream. The scientists woke the subjects when they began to have a dream (エ). The scientists did this for several nights. Those subjects felt sick all day.

Then the scientists did another experiment. They woke the subjects several times when they were not dreaming. They did this for several nights. But those subjects didn't feel sick. By these experiments, the scientists found that they were right.

* subject 被験者
